Governors Lay Foundation for Association.

Federal Government to Have no Part in It.

President Dominates Epoch-Making Meeting.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) President Roosevelt dominated the conference for the conservation of natural resources today.

He presided throughout the session, immediately after a majority of the governors of states laid the foundation for the formation of an organization of their own, in which the federal government will have no part.

Gov. Branson of Virginia and Gov. William of Kentucky were named to select an Executive Committee of five or seven. That committee is to fix the time and place and to prepare a program for a meeting of governors some time within a year. Gov. Folk was named, but withdrew with the statement that his term expires with this year.

The resolution drawn by President Roosevelt's committee empowering the Chief Executive of the nation to call subsequent conferences was adopted after protests made by Gov. Glenn of North Carolina and Gov. of Missouri.

Gov. Glenn suggested that the governors meet in conference whenever the Chief Executive of the nation to call subsequent conferences was adopted after protests made by Gov. Glenn of North Carolina and Gov. of Missouri.

LOOKING FOR OGRESS.

Authorities in Norway Are Hoping to Effect the Arrest of the Indians.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHRISTIANIA, May 11.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Nothing is known in Norway of the rumored arrival of Mrs. Belle Gunness, the alleged murderer of Laporte, in Skien or anywhere else in the country.

The police are vigilant, and have seen nothing suspicious. Mrs. Gunness, the woman's first husband, emigrated from Christiania thirty years ago. He was the son of a workingman, and was born here. His reputation was good, but otherwise little is remembered about him.

Her correspondent has had a talk with an uncle of Philip R. Gunness. He said his nephew was a good man, and he was deeply moved at the terrible fate which Philip probably had met. The case has startled the public greatly, and many rumors are afloat. The murders at Laporte are widely discussed, while the fact that Mrs. Gunness was a Norwegian has caused much regret in this country.

KIDNAP POLICEMEN.

They Enter Auto With Crook, When
He Turns on Power, and Carries
Them Into Country.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
DALLAS (S. D.) May 15.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) An up-to-date yeoman, who included a big red touring car in his kit of tools, kidnapped two Dallas police today and carried them far into the country before he allowed them to leave the machine.

Night Watchman Wilson and a deputy arrested the robber suspect and entered the auto to take him to the station, when he turned on the power.
The police had no weapons and could not have used them if they had. They were too busy holding on.

The robbers were riding a roan and two gray horses. The information was brought here yesterday afternoon.
Railroad officials have ordered out a special with posse. It was reported yesterday morning that the robbers had been captured, but this has since been denied.

The posse are pressing the robbers closely, and their capture is confidently expected.

Seven Chinamen, Arrested at Santa
Ana, Believed to Be in This Country
Without Right.

Seven Chinamen, arrested by Santa Ana officers on suspicion that they were being smuggled into this country, were brought here yesterday afternoon by immigration inspectors and locked up in the County Jail. A. C. Ridgway, chief of the local immigration bureau, is confident that the prisoners are illegally in the United States, but he does not believe the report that Celestials are smuggled in by whole loads.

"There are constant efforts to bring Chinese into the State," he said, "and notwithstanding the utmost vigilance of the inspectors, these efforts are often successful, but, sooner or later, the inspectors get hold of the men who do not possess certificates and secure their deportation."

The Chinamen arrested at Santa Ana were discovered through a mistake to the automobile in which they were being driven through that city yesterday night. The machine, driven by Al Hardesty of Los Angeles, was stopped on East Fourth street. Officers learned that it was filled with Chinamen and the arrests followed.

Hardesty, who is employed by the Holt and Central Companies, of No.
2294 South Spring street, told the federal authorities that he was ordered by telephone to go to Tustin. An unidentified man accompanied him. He said that he was instructed to turn his machine close to a hedge and that he did so, seven Mongolians stepped in and the man disappeared.

Neither the Santa Ana police nor the immigration inspectors believe that the chauffeur knew that he was

OAKS BLANK SEAL PLAYERS.

Pitcher Wright Allows Losers but Two Singles.

Skilman Is Slammed Hard All Over the Lot.

Eagan Makes Four Swats and Accepts Ten Chances.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Backed up by fielding that was faultless and at times spectacular, Red Wright, the Oakland twirler, shut out the Seals in a 3-to-0 game this afternoon at Recreation Park. Just two singles by Mohler and Skilman were all the locals secured in the nine innings, while Skilman was hammered freely all the distance, a double and ten singles being the sum total. Truck Eagan had with him his batting eye and slammed out the one double-bagger of the game, and three singles as well, in the four times that he was at bat. With the exception of Mohler, every man on the A's squad followed suit with a single.

The game was played in rattling time, the nine innings being pulled off in an hour and twenty-five minutes. The Seals were retired in rapid order in their end of the various innings, while the Oaklanders distributed their batters.

The first score came in the second inning, when Eagan started with a single, Skilman laid down a bunt that Williams dropped on the rebounding and Eagan went to third. After Cook was out on a fly, Haley forced Eagan at the home plate, but Lewis singled over second and scored Eagan.

It took four hits by Lewis in the sixth inning to make the second Oakland tally. Heuttmiller hit down past third and Eagan shot the ball into left field. Eagan and Hogan went out on a double play, but Cook dropped a Texas leaguer over the infield and Heuttmiller made the second man around the circuit.

The third and last score came in the ninth inning. With Lewis out, Eagan overthrew first when Wright hit the ball to short and the red-haired pitcher took two bases. He reached third on Jimmy Smith's out and scored on a close decision at first. Van Halbeek getting a hit because Rick Williams failed to touch the bag as he got the ball.

GAME AT POMONA.

WHITTIER IN SECOND CONTEST. (SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.) WHITTIER, May 11.—The Whittier baseball team is to go to Claremont this morning, where it will meet the Pomona nine this afternoon. While the Quakers scarcely hope for a victory, they feel confident of putting up a better game than they did in the first contest with Pomona.

Coach Thompson will be able to lead into the game this afternoon the strongest team he has had this year. Allen, who was unable to play in either of the U.S.C. games, will be back at his old position at shortstop, and Holton, who has been playing short, will go back to third, where he played last year. This will allow Coach Thompson to have one of the best lineups in the South.

The outfield positions are to be taken care of by Pickett, Feiler and Todd. Short, the boy pitcher, will be in the box and Kerr behind the bat. Quite a crowd of loyal Quaker rooters will accompany the team.

Carlisle fills bill.

Carlisle comes pretty near filling the bill as a throwing outfielder and a fast man on the bases; he made a beautiful throw from left field on Klein's single, picking the ball up while on the dead run and sending it to the plate like a rifle shot. Ball, a fast man, started from second with the crack of the bat, and was well on his way home when the ball started, but he was tagged by Origer several feet from the home plate.

Carlisle got the warmest hand when he caught a liner from Conroy's bat, a few inches from the ground. This with his throw home and fast work on the bases brought the Californian into the limelight as a great ball player, and the crowd was satisfied that he would do.

SPORTS WANT A LIVE ONE.

Anxious to See Gans Against a Good Boxer.

Unholz Bout Showed Black to Be in Real Form.

McFarland Only Man That Has Chance to Win.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The remarkable demonstration of cleverness and speed given by Joe Unholz last night, when he beat Boer Unholz in helplessness in eleven rounds has renewed the desire of sporting men to see the champion boxer with a real boxer. If this cannot be had they want to see him fight Nelson the beating for which he has been clamoring ever since the conflict at Goldfield.

Galt showed last night as never before that he is master of the game. Against Unholz, who is a strong, dangerous man, always fighting with arms going like windmills, Gans was forced to use his skill to prevent the bulky Boer from landing a knockout. Unholz does not know the rudiments of the boxing game, but he is strong as an ox and has a hard left hand. He kept boring in in a peculiar style with one shoulder up and body low, which made it impossible to land a damaging blow.

Joe studied his man for three rounds and then began systematically to sting punches on face and body. He caught the savage swings of the Boer and he had to stop last night. He would rip in uppercuts that jarred Unholz to his toes. This treatment wore him out. He was not able to stand and then he began systematically to sting punches on face and body. AT THE CITY HALL.

EXPRESSMEN MAKE APPEAL.

WOULD HAVE THE NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE CHANGED.

Not Likely to Meet With Favor. Residents of Westwoodland Heights are at odds concerning improvement of the Board of Public Works Order More Street Paving.

Drivers of Los Angeles express wagons apparently have not been idle from the day the new traffic ordinance went into effect, banishing them from the streets in the congested district.

Yesterday they filed a petition with the City Clerk, probably containing the name of every expressman in the city—there are several long legal-cap pages of names—asking that the ordinance be given them of standing in the business center. They also have secured the signatures of about thirty merchants.

A City Councilman cited the difference between the appearance of the streets today and what they were before the new ordinance went into effect.

"At every corner where two streets cross, we used to see an express wagon as many as four at a junction, standing there most of the day waiting for business to come to them. And at some places where these big trucks came, almost as big as a house, it was an outrage on the public and the mark of a backward town, and I contend that business men have no right to give these privileges, even if they do happen to control the frontage. You will note the same big trucks along the curb. I think the ordinance is all right as it stands, and I can't conceive why any business man should sign a petition unless it is that he gets some small favor in the way of having packages delivered in rooms where the privilege gives the expressman."

WATTS'S POLITICS.

CITY CLERK ATTACKED.

Because S. J. Lord in December, 1924, made a writ in the Land Office of his intention to take up acreage in Antelope Valley, he may be obliged to relinquish the position of City Clerk of Watts, to which he was elected on April 2.

The former City Clerk, F. J. Rorke, has attacked the legality of Lord's qualifications for the office on the ground that he had not been elected to the position of City Clerk of Watts for one year preceding his nomination for office. The plaintiff asks the court to oust Lord and appoint himself to the office, as he was the candidate having the next greatest number of votes.

When the hearing was before Judge Monroe, yesterday, it was conceded by both sides that Mr. Lord made the affidavit presented in evidence, but the defense averred that he did not take up the government land. It was stated that he did engage in ranching in Antelope Valley, but, after some months, returned to Watts and lived there continuously since June 1, 1925.

The court took the matter under advisement, remarking that the affidavit seemed to be excellent evidence that Lord had engaged in ranching. Should it be so decided, he must give up the City Clerkship.

JAIL DOORS OPEN.

HARVEST OF WILD OATS.

Trembling with anger and excitement, Alma Norman, the opera singer and wife of W. L. Cunningham, attracted attention in Judge James's courtroom yesterday during counsel's arguments in her husband's trial on the charge of embezzling two mules, a horse and a colt from T. A. Ashbridge.

She was convicted by the jury after five minutes' deliberation and will be sentenced Tuesday.

Owing to the unexpectedly strong nature of the people's evidence, the defense decided to present no testimony, and it was decided that Cunningham became greatly disturbed. She wished to take the stand herself, though she was weak and trembling when the crime was committed. When her demand was refused, she urged Cunningham to take the stand in his own behalf. He did so during arguments which followed, the wife made a number of low-toned, caustic comments.

As she had been her recent information that the defendant had been advised to jump his bail pending trial, she was very angry. She was carried into court on a stretcher and later died. The Board of Medical Examiners then made an effort to force the doctor out of business, and he was removed.

Storey continued to practice, however, and, last October, another patient died after a week's treatment. To relieve the situation, the doctor was removed from the city. He had been hammering the victim with a mallet.

Storey escaped to Mexico, but subsequently returned to this city. He was arrested and taken to the city jail. He was held in the city jail for some time, but was later released.

MIK Under Standard. On charges of having violated the city milk ordinance, J. A. Almerich, S. Kusanagi and C. C. Kitchen, grocers, were charged yesterday by Justice Chambers yesterday.

Breed Dealers Arrested. Charged with carrying breed through the streets without properly protecting them from dust, six arrests were made yesterday by Health Officer J. R. Caldwell. The defendants, who were arraigned in Justice Chambers's court in the afternoon, are R. F. Goodhue, John Cooper, George Merie, H. W. Moore, John Eyrard and Charles Williams.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED. The Second District Court of Appeal has granted a new trial in the case of C. M. Henderson and L. A. Macdonald against the Western Gas Engine Company. The lower court found for the defendant. The plaintiff's briefs were filed yesterday. The defense claimed to be due them from the company for the sale of stock. The defense asserted that the president of the company had never given authorization to the brokers to undertake the sale. The higher court finds that there is no evidence that the directors of the company did tacitly authorize the employment of the brokers.

WATER CASE FOR HIGH COURT. John Burr, formerly Sheriff of this county, filed a transcript of appeal in the Supreme Court yesterday, in the case he brought against the Macvey Rancho Company to determine certain water rights. The lower court held that the defendant was entitled to pump 125 inches from a subterranean stream in the San Fernando Valley. Burr insists that it is only entitled to twelve inches. The transcript consists of 72 pages, and the higher court is asked to render a decision on some mooted points in water rights law.

SPINES WILL NOW ESCAPE MALLETS.

MAXIMUM SENTENCE IMPOSED ON SELF-STYLED DOCTOR.

Two Deaths Laid at His Door. Fine and Imprisonment Awarded. Appeal to Be Taken—Barber Pays High Figure for Fish—Milk and Breed Vendors Arrested.

Thomas H. Storey, who for three years practiced medicine and surgery in this city without a license, was fined $500 and sentenced to sixty days in the City Jail by Justice Austin yesterday.

He first came into prominence about two years ago, when one of his victims was carried into court on a stretcher and later died. The Board of Medical Examiners then made an effort to force the doctor out of business, and he was removed.

Storey continued to practice, however, and, last October, another patient died after a week's treatment. To relieve the situation, the doctor was removed from the city. He had been hammering the victim with a mallet.

Storey escaped to Mexico, but subsequently returned to this city. He was arrested and taken to the city jail. He was held in the city jail for some time, but was later released.

CHAPTER XXII.

TELLS OF THE THREE.

"Well," asked Duncan Macgregor, who was seated in an easy attitude in Sam Statham's library. At the table sat the millionaire himself, while near by, in the enjoyment of a cigar, stood Levi. The latter was still in his garb of service, but his attitude was certainly more like that of his master's intimate friend than that of a butler.

It was from his thin lips that the query had escaped in response to a fact which the Scot had emphasized with his hairy fist.

"Well," exclaimed Statham after a pause, "and what do you suppose should be done, Mr.?"

Macgregor—still Duncan Macgregor—exclaimed the bearded man, concluding the millionaire's sentence. "That's the verri thing that puzzles me, m'n. Please we'd best wait a wee bit, an' see."

Levi dissented. He knew that whatever his position in that strange household, his master always listened to him and took his advice—sometimes when it involved the risk of many thousands. He was a kind of oracle, for generally when Ben came there to consult his brother upon some important point, the old servant remained in the room to hear the discussion and to give his dry but candid opinion.

"My own opinion is that we should act at once—without fear. The slightest hesitation now will be our undoing, depend upon it," he said.

"All right, Mr. Levi," exclaimed the Scot, "I'm a ways for caution, Hama's our ain Dobbie said that facts are shits that winna ding, and downa be disputed."

"Yes; but we've not yet quite established the facts yet, you see," Statham said.

"Why, mon, isn't it as plain as plain can be? What mair d'ye want?"

"A good deal," Levi chimed in in his squeaky voice. "We can't act on that. It's too shadowy altogether."

"I tell ye it isn't," cried Duncan, shaking his head at Levi. "Mr. Statham is in sair peril, I tell ye he is, an' I've proved it."

"Mr. Statham must be allowed to be the best judge of that," Levi said, placing his hands together, and holding his cigar between his teeth.

"Mr. Statham knows me well. He knows I'd no tell him what I don't ken nae'er."

The great financier rose thoughtfully and stood with his back to the mantelpiece.

"Look here, Macgregor," he said, fixing his eyes upon the man seated before him. "When you called at the office and was fool enough not to give your proper name you had a difficult time in getting an interview with me. I hadn't any idea, till I received your note that—well, that you were the land of the living. When we met before it was under different circumstances—very different, weren't they?"

"And the millionaire smiled. "I shall recall to your memory one scene—long ago—a scene that lives in my memory this moment as though the events happened but yesterday. We were both younger, and more active then—ye and I—"

"Nae, Mr. Statham, we're better not hearin' it," he protested, holding up his hands. "I jalousie what you're a-goin' to say."

"To you, my friend, I owe much," the old man went on. "The place was in a sun-baked South American city, the time was sunset, fierce and blood-red like the deeds of that never-to-be-forgotten day. There was war—a revolution was in progress, and the government forces had been that day driven back into the capital followed by us. I remember you, with that great bullet furrow down your cheek and the blood streaming from it as you fought at my side. I see you bear the scar even now."

Then, with a quick movement he pulled up his sleeve and showed on his right forearm a great cicatrice, adding: "Do you remember how I received that?"

"Nae, mae, Mr. Statham, enough!" cried the Scot. "Our days of war are long since past. They'll come again nae mair."

"You remember how we followed the troops of Hernandez into the capital, shooting and killing as we drove them before us, and how you and I and a few more of the younger bloods made a dash for the palace to secure the President himself. I recollect the wild excitement of those moments. I was tearing along the street shouting and urging on my men, when of a sudden I found myself surrounded by a dozen soldiers of Hernandez. I fought for life, though well knowing I was lost. As a prisoner I should be tortured, for they had long sworn to serve me as they had served our friends José and Manuel. This recollection flashed across me, and with my back to the wall I fired my pistol full in a man's face, and blew it out of all recognition. A man had raised his rifle and covered me, but next moment I gave him an upward cut with my sword."

"At the same instant I felt a sharp twinge upon my right arm, and my sword dropped from my grasp. I was maddened, and stood there at their mercy. A dark-faced, beetle-browed fellow raised his saber with a fierce Spanish oath to come down, but in the blood-red sunlight another blade flashed high, and the man sank dying in the dust."

"It was you, Macgregor—you alone had come to my aid, and four of my attackers fell beneath your blows in that hand-to-hand struggle. At that moment with your own body placed before mine, fought on, keeping them back, and yet without assistance. Shall I ever forget those moments, or how near both of us were to death? I was already half-faint, but you shouted to me to keep courage, and in the end we were discovered by our men and saved. If I were dead, I should be remembered by the Cross, yours did. You, Macgregor—as you now call yourself—saved my life."

"An' I'm here, Mr. Statham, to save it again, if ye'll only let me," was the Scot's dry reply.

"Years have gone since that day," the millionaire went on, with a distinct catch in his voice. "I lost sight of you soon afterward, and had once that you were in Caracas. Then there was no further news of you. We drifted apart—our lives lay in opposite directions. Yet to you—and to you alone—I owe my present life, for were it not for your aid at that moment I should have been put to the sword in that terrible castle where Hernandez did his prisoners to death, and my body given to the rats like others of our friends."

"Eh, mon, ye really make me blush," laughed Macgregor. "So please don't talk of it. That's all over and done. Let the past take care of itself. We've got the present to face."

"I have never reflected upon the past," Sam declared in a rather low and husky voice. "I never dreamed that the man Macgregor, in the employ of the Clyde and Macgregor Works, was the same man to whom I am indebted for my life."

"Ah, mae's a problem that puzzles the devil himself," laughed Macgregor. "I'd nae nae mair to ye were the old days."
